And 61 percent agreed that award recognition impacted their buying decision," cites Catherine Upton, group publisher of the Elearning! Media Group.

 "Our industry is experiencing a period of innovation and transformation. The introduction of new social, mobile solutions and talent software is reflected in the number of honorees in this year's Best of Elearning! Awards. These awards are committed to recognizing innovation and user satisfaction across a diverse group of solution providers," reports Jerry Roche, editorial director of the Elearning! Magazine Group.

"It is an honor to be nominated by the user community and Elearning! readers for this award," stated Dudley Molina, CEO and President, ePath Learning.
