ePath Learning Launches eSource – Social Network for the Enterprise

January 12, 2012 - ePath Learning, Inc., a leader in cloud-based learning services, announced the release of eSource, an enterprise social network offering. ePath Learning eSource is a cloud-based service that empowers all employees to contribute, ask questions, share information, connect with colleagues, and search for experts throughout the organization. Employees can collaborate in teams and instantly see what others are working on, share content and post updates. Problems are solved organically, and answers to questions are crowd sourced eliminating the silo effect. Organizational knowledge is unleashed.

eSource functionality is similar to today's most popular social networks, except eSource is private, secure, supports multiple languages and is a controlled social network for the enterprise that is offered fully integrated into ePath Learning's learning management service (ASAP), or as a stand-alone service in the cloud. eSource inherently builds a searchable database of all eSource communications and the expertise of users enabling the organization to retain knowledge and develop best practices. Individual knowledge becomes organizational knowledge in a safe, secure internal environment.

“We are excited to introduce both the integrated version of eSource to our ASAP customers, and the stand-alone version to the market as well,” said Dudley Molina, CEO and President, ePath Learning. “We believe that enabling open communications across the organization and sharing knowledge at all levels is a catalyst for success. eSource provides the means to get information to those in need, when they need it. As individuals we can crowd source answers to questions on the Internet, with eSource we can now crowd source solutions to our corporate challenges. To sum it up, while knowledge is power, we believe sharing it creates success.”
