ePath Learning, Inc. Earns Silver in the 2014 bsoco Awards for eLearning

eActivity earns silver award status in the eLearning/Rapid Learning Category

February 26, 2014 – ePath Learning, Inc., a leader in cloud-based learning services announced today that they are the proud recipient of the 2014 bsoco award for eLearning in the Rapid Learning category. eActivity, a powerful interactivity building tool that comes integrated in ePath Learning’s ASAP learning management service, earned bsoco’s silver award status.

ePath Learning’s eActivity is a powerful yet simple interactivity building tool that helps users to develop outstanding learning content without any programming skills. You can easily incorporate Flash activities into your learning materials. eActivity offers an extensive library of customizable templates that can simply be dropped into your eLearning courses.

Each year, the bsoco awards recognize the best business software. The awards are given based on the assessment of an independent international panel of judges and the assessment of users themselves, who respond to a unique questionnaire. The responses of thousands of users are converted into a bsoco index score. For additional information on the bsoco awards visit www.bsoco.com.

“We’re honored to be a first-time recipient of this prestigious award,” stated Ms. Donna Lord, Vice President, Sales and Marketing. “eActivity is an easy-to-use tool that offers you the instructional design flexibility to incorporate engaging activities into your courseware so that you can bring your key messages to light. It’s a powerful tool that can add immediate value to all of your eLearning course materials.”
